

Intern wanted for the next Joan Tapper / Gale Zucker book project

Description:

Intern wanted to help as an editorial assistant with a new book on craft and activism. The intern will assist the experienced, previously published co-authors – a writer and photographer – create spreadsheets and keep them updated to track text, projects, materials, samples, photo shoots, and photos. The intern will also help with phone calls and emails..

We're looking for someone with a passion for craft & knitting – no need to be an expert – who can work approximately 2-10 hours a week. We are getting underway immediately, and will continue through to summer.

The intern must:

- be detail oriented
- have excellent email & phone communication skills
- enjoy creating spreadsheets
- be good at scheduling and updating
- be Mac-based
- have a sense of humor
- understand the need for flexibility
- live in, CT, NY, RI or MA

There is no financial compensation, but you will gain resume-quality, behind-the-scenes experience in seeing a book from start through finished manuscript. You will receive acknowledgement in the book, as well as the book itself. You'll get preview copies of patterns and projects. If there's extra yarn or craft supplies, we'll share. And whenever we meet in person, we buy lunch.

Interested?

Please send an email describing yourself & your qualifications to gale@gzucker.com

Curious about us? We're the team that did Shear Spirit (PotterCraft 2008). Learn more at:

www.joantapper.com Joan's website

www.gzucker.com Gale's website

www.shearspirit.typepad.com our Shear Spirit book blog

www.ezibus.blogspot.com She Shoots Sheep Shots knit blog